A Word to Student:

Zijun Li's work was submitted in a timely manner every time, and his homework was excellent. He had a good background in machine learning and had good programming ability. He had a strong learning ability and a positive learning attitude. Besides, he was an active student and asked the TA many questions after class. For the final project, he did a sentiment analysis of irony and humor in social media to pose a formidable challenge owing to the complexity and context-dependency of such expressions, and wrote a good final report. He ended up with a grade of A in the class.

Wish him good luck for further studies and all future endeavors.
